

On a recent trip from Maine to Florida I found the XMRadio weather and traffic information very useful. I was pulling a 27 foot travel trailer and was able to take better routes to avoid being in or contributing to traffic delays. If I had to scan through the broadcast radio stations I would probably have never found the information I needed until it was too late.